A BIT OF HOME WITHIN THE CAMP

A long, low building of frame con struction, attractively planued, with wide verandas and a homelike aspect. Outside are hanging the flags-the Stars and Stripes, which must soon be taken in as it is nearly sunset, and another flag bearing a little triangle of blue and the letters Y. W. C. A. of the house the woman approaching sloging.

The woman, who is slight and young of and the probable expense of and tired-looking, puts her heavy suitcase down on the walk and shifts the baby she is carrying to the other arm. She listens a minute, then picks up the luggage and walks bravely up to the quarterly report and is allowed front door. Some one has heard her coming and is there to meet her. Some one always is in places like this. The door is thrown open and a kind woman's voice says; "Oh, do come in and rest. Let me take the baby." The baby is passed over and the stranger, worn from a long Journey, tired and Walter Claxton, No. 11, salary sad, is given the welcome which only the Y. W. C. A. hostesses know how to give. She explains that she has come to see John before he leaves for the front. She has been saying her money for traveling expenses, and has come to surprise tilm. John has never seen the baby, and now maybe be never will, for she has discovered that John has just left on a two days' furlough John W. Cottengim, No. 5, to surprise her. Before she could get lough will have expired and he will be on his way back to camp. The little mother does not know how to meet the situation and tears of fatigue and disappointment begin to flow. "Well, that's too bad," says the sympathetic Y. W. C. A. worker, "But cheer up. You can just stay here for and supplies $43.10, lumber a couple of days. We'll send a wire to John at the first place his train stops and tell him to take the next train back. He can enjoy his forlough here.

This is done and the little family has a glorious day of it.

The Young Women's Christian association has established 92 hostess houses of this character for American soldiers and sailors and their familles. In this brief builtetin of news lies one of the most potent factors in the winning of this war. Our boys are fighting for their homes. The Y. W. C. A. with its hostess work in this country and in France is helping to keep the ideal of American home life constantly before the men who are protecting it. These men had to go away from their individual homes, but there is a home which follows them-a place where they can go when they are off duty and meet their families and rest. There is a room in every Y. W. C. A. hostess house with a real fireplace in it and a domestic hearth. There are chairs with cushlons on them; the china is not of the iron-bound bucket variety necessary in camps; and best of all, the boys say, there are nice women to talk to. No boy in camp would hesitate to ask his mother or sister or the girl he thinks most of to meet him at a Y. W. C. A. house, for he knows that the women she will see there are of the right kind. The very fact that it is known that there is a reat, homey place near each camp authorized by the war department and presided over by dignified and refined women, has served very largely to discourage the other type of woman and keep her away from the men she formerly preyed upon.

The Y. W. C. A. houses are not established with any view to marking lass lines, however, although many of the hostesses who assist led lives of greatest ease and luxury before the war. Democracy rules at the sign of the little Blue Triangle.

A story is told of a great merchant's wife whose individual fortune mounts to the million mark. This lady is a member of one of the Y. W. C. A. committees, and on one occasion she was helping in the cafeteria of a hostess house at the Great Lakes naval training station. A little shopgirl who had a "day off" from her work in the basement of the great store owned by the Y. W. C. A. worker's husband, and who had come to see her sallor brother, was in a State street hurry for service. She sharply ordered the merchant's wife to "look alive with these forks, girlie."

The lady addressed as "girlle" quite humbly saw to it that the pile of forks was replenished. Then she went over and talked to the girl, helped her to locate her brother and sent her away happy. The shopgirl never knew that she had been talking to her employer's wife.

There are two hostess houses at the Great Lakes station, and it is a wonderful sight to see the crowds of women relatives and friends of the sallors who throng to them on the Wednesday drill afternoons. From 1,000 to 3,000 persons a day are cared for in the cafeterias, and the nurseries are full of sallor bubles, whose mothers can leave them there safely while they are on the grounds.

In addition to the hostess house work in this country the Y. W. C. A. has established the famous Hotel Petrograd in Paris as a center for transient women war workers overseas. There are also many foyers or recreation centers in France where girl munitions workers, signal corps girls and others are refreshed and brightened by association with the play lenders of the Y. W. C. A. who have Introduced American gymnasium classes into French life.

The Wright County Odd Fellows Association will meet here Saturday, Nov. 23, at which time foreign-born how to sew and cook and Grand Master H.A.Collins of La care for the baby. mar is expected to be present, as well as representatives from the various lodges of the county. THE BLUE TRIANGLE

ON BABEL'S TOWER Lucia pulled her shawl farther across her face and shrank down on the station platform bench as the solid blue figure suddenly bent down over her. Excitedly she shook her head in answer to the question that she could not understand. She searched through her red plaid waist for the paper that Tony had folded into a little square and given to her. The writing on it, in the English that Tony knew and she did not, told the house where she lived. Tony had explained it all to her that morning. He had told it to her again at the station. Then, waving his hat he had disappeared into the train with the rest of the men, and Lucia had been left standing oueside the gate. There were crowds of women pushing about her. They were weeping.

So Lucia wept, too. Lucis had been betrothed to Tony in the old country. Five years before, with a long ticket for New York planed into his inside pocket, her lover had left her. He wrote in every letter that he had made her a home in the new country. Her dowry money had finally provided her own transportation, and for two months Tony and she had been married. Then he had drawn a ticket with a number on it. and this morning he had gone off to

To the policeman Lucia told all these things in rapid Italian. But the policeman only talked back to her as rapidly in a language that was not Italian. She followed him dumbly to headquarters. An hour later a woman wearing American clothes gently began talking to her in beautiful Ital-

Italian Lucia was only one of thousands of foreign-born women. Syrians, Italians Armenians, Russians, Lithuanians, Polish, who, when the draft called their men folk to the American colors, asked in helpless confusion what it was all about. When would their men be back? What did people mean when they told them they would receive money through the mail? Where could they find work that they knew how to do? Was there no one who could explain it all to them in their own language? The Y. W. C. A. was ready to offer assistance, but it would be of no value to offer it in English. Consequently it had to supply a corps of women who could talk to the foreign-born woman at her own door in the language that she was used to hearing in the homeland. To teach her English was as essential a factor in her Americanization as to find her a job. Therefore the war council of the Y. W. C. A. set out to find her English.

A year before the war began in Europe, the lenders of the Young Woman's Christian association foresaw just such a situation, and made ready to meet it. They studied the needs of the immigrant. They trained skilled American social workers to become familler with the home habits and to speak the language of the Lett and the Hungarian and the Greek and the other foreign mothers who brought bables and bundles over from Ellis Island to Battery park. The organization into which this experiment has developed was named by the Y. W. C. A. antional board, "The International Institute for Young Women." In terms which these women can understand, it is teaching the

"The Home Information Service for Foreign Families of Enlisted Men" is doing practical relief work for the wives and mothers. The purpose of the board is to help the women folk left behind to understand where their boys are and how they are being treated; how they need home support and cheer, how to send them comforts, and to keep pace themselves by learning English and other things, so that when the boys come home they will not find their women still very un-American and out of sympathy with them. Food conservation bulletins have been translated into 18 or 19 languages. At the factories and munition plants interpreters are available for the non-English speaking women by whom the real war industries of the country are being largely carried on. In 25 important cities International Institute Bureaus are training American and foreign women for full time social four trained women are employed on the national and district field staff of the Y. W. C. A. On June 15 there were 105 trained women working at Americanization. When more than 75,000 Chicago men filled out their blue cards for the September 12 draft, Gang Luo Wong-an peared at one precinct bringing with him Mrs. Gang Wong and the three children. All five wished to register. The enrolling clerk explained, but the Gang Luo Wongs make many broken Chinese remonstrances before the master of the family was induced to sign a card without his wife. Mrs. Wong could not speak English. What would his family do in a strange country if Gang Luo went to war? All over the United States Chinese and Poles and Serbs were asking the same question. It is to just such needs that the War Council of the Y. M. C. A. Is organized to give assistance. USE FOR DOGS IN WARFARE Regular Schools in France Established to Teach Animals to Scout for Wounded.

Were it possible for a man to wanwhere she is sharpening her weapons of war, he would chance on the strangest sight of the many strange ones the conflict has produced. Here, in big pens, he could see hundreds of animals collected for their course of training. Not one of them but has passed his medical test before a board with a special jury. They are in the hands of their drillmasters, learning war's lesson.

Perhaps strange cries would reach his cars—weird yelps and howls, such as never even disturbed his midnight slumbers. These would be calls to be used in special cases, when the dog is doing duty out on No Man's Land.

And then, if the visitor should stand and watch, his eye would presently light on a soldier lying limp on the ground with a dog sniffing round him. Perhaps he would see the dog, after a while, drag the cap from the soldier's head, or the identification tag from his wrist, and run off with it to his master. This dog would be no other than a candidate for the Red Cross, learning his duty as scout the evidence from a body he found -a live body. Dead men don't count.-People's Home Journal.
